

Would you rather have a longer school day and no homework or a shorter day and more homework?

Genuinely, getting out early and having more homework is more appealing than having a longer school day and no homework because I can use outside resources on my homework. In class, I cannot use outside resources to help me with my arduous classwork. Outside of school, I use other technological resources. In summary, I would definitely choose getting out early and having more homework than having a longer school day and no homework.

Nia Ailshie, 8th, Surgoinsville Middle, Mrs. Hensley

I would rather have a longer day at school and have no homework. I would rather have no homework because it is hard. I do not like homework because it is not fun. I don't like homework because it takes a long time to finish.

This is why I would rather have a longer day at school and have no homework.

Joseph Solomon, 2nd, Hilton Elementary, Mrs. Edwards

Honestly I would rather have a longer school day with no homework. If you think about it a longer school day would equal more time with friends and no homework would equal more time with family. Most of the time some kids do not even do their homework so it makes class harder for them. That is why I think you would need more time in that subject. So in conclusion, school needs to be longer with no homework so you can get more help in school.

Samantha Cavin, 5th, Jonesville Middle, Mrs. Austin

I would rather have a longer school day and no homework because you will not have homework. I have hard time with it. If I got to stay longer and no homework that would be great. When you come to school you still have homework so I wish there was no such thing as homework.

Nevaeh Washam, 4th, Miller Perry Elementary, Ms. Jeffers

Short day with lots of homework.

Brayden Davis, Kindergarten, Hilton Elementary, Ms. Howe

I would rather get out early and have homework. The main reason for this is because homework usually takes 30 minutes, maybe an hour. If we stayed at school longer than 3:30 we wouldn't have any time for sports or other after school activities. And teachers wouldn't be prepared for extended time in class. The school board would also have to prepare to spend more money because if we stay longer we will need more food. The school board would also have to pay teachers more because they would be staying longer. I hope you enjoyed would you rather.

Dalton Gorley, 7th, Holston Valley Middle, Mrs. Taylor

I would rather have no homework because we can have fun times with Mrs. Brooks.

Matt Baldwin, 7th, Jonesville Middle, Mrs. Brooks

You know, I can't make up my mind. I don't know if I would want to get out of school early and have lots of homework or stay longer and have no homework. Getting out of school early would be great, but all of that homework!

If you stayed longer you would have no homework, but you would get less rest.

I really don't know which one to pick. Can you make up your mind? I know I can't.

Abigail Berry, 4th, Miller Perry Elementary, Ms. Jeffers

I want a long day of school and no homework so I can play when I get home.

Timothy Nelson, Kindergarten, Hilton Elementary, Ms. Howe

I would rather have a shorter school day because if you have chores you might not get your chores done. I would rather get out of school early and have more homework.

I want more homework because if you have more homework you can learn more stuff. Learn more and you get smarter, right?

Markus Wheel, 5th, Jonesville Middle, Mrs. Austin

I would rather have longer days and less homework. I believe that students have very small amounts of time at home to do what they want, so students should not have to do anything else at home. Students need time to relax which shouldn't be taken up by homework.

Cole Evans, 8th, Surgoinsville Middle, Mrs. Hensley

I would rather have a longer day at school with no homework because my mom makes me do homework at bedtime. I hate homework because I don't know answers to the questions.

I love school because my teacher rocks!

If I stayed at school longer I would play my video games instead of doing homework, or I would watch TV instead of doing homework.

Elijah Berry, 2nd, Rock Springs Elementary, Mrs. Charlton

I want a long day of school and lots of homework.

Madelynn Hinkle, Kindergarten, Hilton Elementary, Ms. Howe

I would rather have a longer school day and not have homework than get out early and have more homework because when I get home I have to do my chores and watch my siblings.

I am the oldest and have a lot of responsibilities.

Evany Collins, 7th, Jonesville Middle, Mrs. Brooks

I would rather have a half day with more homework because I work better alone and I could get it done quicker. I could not do a longer day because I would miss baseball practice. It would be a long tiresome day. Basically we would do homework at school.

Gavin Roberts, 7th, Holston Valley Middle, Mrs. Taylor

I would rather have longer school and no homework. I love school so

I would spend more time with my friends.

But the no homework thing is perfect.

Kaitlyn Moore, 6th, Jonesville Middle, Mrs. Jones

I would choose neither of them. I would rather have a normal school day and homework from each class I go to (except gym).

Joseph Horner, 5th, Jonesville Middle, Mrs. Austin

I would rather have a longer day and no homework. It's more boring than watching 3 horses stacked on each other doing the salsa.

Weird, isn't it? I would like a longer day to see my friends. It would be fun to have extra recess.

I love recess. I would also like extra Chromebook time. Also, more multiplication. Math is my favorite thing to do. These are the reasons why I don't like homework.

McKenna Bentley, 2nd, Hilton Elementary, Mrs. Edwards

I would rather have a longer school day.

I guess a longer school day would be better for some students. And now that I think about it, a longer school day means a shorter school year and if not then it would not make sense.

Logan Roberts, 6th, Jonesville Middle, Mrs. Jones

I would rather have a longer school day and have no homework. The reason behind this is you could get more work done and that would be less stress on the teachers since they have to get so many things done through the four nine-weeks.

It would also give you more time in related arts class. Like in band we can't rehearse our concert in fifty minutes because there are things we have to fix. You would also have more time in lunch which means you can talk and hang out with your friends longer and have more time to eat.

Alexus Stuart, 7th, Holston Valley Middle, Mrs. Taylor

I would rather get out early and have more homework because I have sports and I like homework.

Brooklyn Middleton, 7th, Jonesville Middle, Mrs. Brooks

I would get out early and have more homework because homework is fun. I also picked this one because if you get out early you have homework.

You have more time to do it. On the intercom, you could hear we're getting out early.

These are the reasons I picked get out early and have more homework.

Delphina Gonzalez, 2nd, Hilton Elementary, Mrs. Edwards

I think I would rather have getting out of school but with more homework than the other one. The homework may be stressful, but I will get over it. Getting out of school early would be so much fun for us.

Tyler Eads, 6th, Jonesville Middle, Mrs. Jones

I would totally like a long school day! You would have longer lunch! I love eating lunch! Longer days means more vacation time too!

It would take a bit shorter to finish college than regular days. Stay in school longer, and remember that school is FUN!
